Delinquency And Role Of School Explained At Institute Meeting

The Lac la Biche Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. W. Coast on May 17 with 18 members present.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, reports were heard. There was only one hospital call made the past month to Mrs. M. Hamar who has recently had to undergo additional surgery. The sympathy of all members is extended to Mrs. Hamar.

Mrs. McMillan reported that the billeting of the University Choir had been satisfactory and thanked her committee members for their work. She also wished to thank all the townspeople who welcomed the singers into their homes and the ladies who provided the lunch for the party on such short notice.

Mrs. W. E. Coast attended the workshop on mental health held in Edmonton May 25 to 27, as delegate from the WI.

The WI will hold a sale of home baking at Hamar's Supermarket on May 28. Each member is asked to bring two or three items. The proceeds of this sale are to be donated to the recreation committee to help with the preparation of the beach for swimming this summer.

R. Tessolin spoke to the meeting on the subject of the Juvenile Delinquent and the Role of the School. The group learned the definition of delinquency and its causes, effects and some methods of help for the affected children. The child cannot be a complete personality without the help of the home, the school, the church and society in general.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Coast and her co-hostess, Mrs. Zaluzny.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Steve Hamar.

$6,000,000 Provided For Street Paving Program Under 5-Year Plan

The year 1960 may well be called a banner year for more than 200 towns, villages and hamlets in the province of Alberta, for the Alberta government's program of assisting in the construction of paved roads and sidewalks will be inaugurated, according to Gordon Taylor, minister of highways.

The street paving program constitutes this year's phase of the province's Five Year program and six million dollars has been provided for this purpose.

Basically the department will provide a sum of money not less than $11,000. This contribution will increase as the population rises from 200. Only towns, villages and hamlets with a population of at least 200 qualifies in the program, said Mr. Taylor.

The department of highways has established an average block 450 feet long and 52 feet wide and the various block areas throughout the province are converted to the number of average blocks.

The local authority decides whether it wants to use the contribution for street paving or sidewalk construction or a combination of both. The local authority is required to provide the subgrade which is necessary in any event to have even a good gravelled road and to establish the road elevations. The provincial contribution then provides the total cost of the stabilized gravel base course plus the surfacing including the engineering.

Mr. Taylor explained that the work will be carried out under the local authority which in most cases will hire consulting engineers. It will be necessary to pass the approval of the provincial engineers in the department of highways but the utmost flexibility is left in the program so that the local authority can get the best prices possible and full value for every dollar spent.

Finally, Mr. Taylor explained some of the objectives of the program:

Program will provide considerable employment at the local level;

The program will create a public work (either a paved road or a sidewalk) that will improve the street facilities for the people of towns, villages and hamlets and thus make the community a better place in which to live;

The program should encourage the various towns to attract business. Most of our people like to visit while they shop and no one can enjoy a social chat if they are being smothered in dust or standing knee deep in mud. The elimination of dust from the street or even a proper sidewalk on which to stand will induce people to use their local town facilities to the utmost degree.

The street paving and/or sidewalk program in Alberta is another first for the Social Credit Government. No other province in Canada has launched out on such a program. The towns, villages and hamlets with the qualifying population are receiving this extra shot in the arm in Alberta that is not available anywhere else in the Dominion.

Alberta leads the way, Mr. Taylor concluded.

THAT NAGGING BACKACHE!

By Dr. K. W. Tenove, Chiropractor

One of the commonest complaints for which a patient consults her doctor is backache.

She is usually quite convinced that it must be due to some pelvic disorder or at least kidney disease. It is usually neither but "milady" is difficult to convince, and frequently yields to reason only after several expensive examinations fail to locate a pelvic or kidney lesion.

Constipation, for instance, is seldom the culprit, though frequently suspected.

Kidney disease seldom causes much back discomfort and when it does the pain is usually high under the lower ribs and not under the belt area or in one hip or leg.

Neuralgic pains sharply move here and there and do not remain long in one place.

Hip joint disease concentrates in one or both hip joints at about the area of a side trouser packet opening. This causes stiffness of legs and a limp.

The several backaches mentioned here have been encountered in Chiropractic Clinics many times, and succesfully handled when their cause was carefully located and then corrective adjustments received for a sufficient length of time. Many times a backache will drive a patient to the doctor permitting him to correct other more threatening and dangerous ailments, thus becoming a blessing in disguise.

A back pain beneath the right shoulder blade, and a numb tingling there, usually is a referred pain due to Gall Bladder trouble but can come from bad posture habits.

A similar pain under the left shoulder blade may come from stomach trouble, the spleen, or bad posture habits.

Backward displacement of the uterus is common and can cause a deep ache under the sacrum low down near, but above the tail bone! Pain from injuries of the coccyx (tail bone) is eqsily located but sometimes confused with a misaligned sacral apex.

The common backache at the belt line area and lower area that comes suddenly on one or both sides, sometimes sending pains into the groins and causing bladder pressure and burning, sometimes sending pains down the side or back of the thigh sometimes causing the knee or calf or even a heel to ache, sometimes preventing the patient from moving any direction without terrific pain across the entire lower back and always causing perspiration and nervousness, is definitely that very ordinary culprit called the Sacroilliac and Sacrolumbar syrain or strain, also known as Sciatica and Sciatic Rheumatism.

This condition as well as the others mentioned here responds readily to adjustic corrections when the condition causing the trouble is carefully located and proper adjustments given.

Your trained Chiropractor can locate, adjust and correct these abnormalities, so as you consult him, trust his judgement and his work.

Independence is something that the married man brags about.

Too Much Service

A good little girl was hurrying to school in a state of extreme agitation.

"Please, God, don't let me be late," she murmured as the school bell began to ring in the distance.

At that moment she tripped over a stone and fell flat.

"Please, God," she exclaimed in an injured voice, as she got up and dusted herself, "I didn't say 'push.'"

Fancy That

"Dear, what did you do to your hair? It looks like a wig."

"It is a wig."

"Well, my goodness, I'd never have known it."

Charter Night Celebrated By Lions

189,000 Projects Completed By Clubs, Guests At Banquet Told By Guenette

LAC LA BICHE — The Memorial Hall was decorated with the original Charter, motifs and banner of the Lac la Biche Lions Club for the 10th anniversary and Charter Night held May 18. One Old Monarch and nine charter members were honored during the evening.

Some 100 Lions and guests sat down to a turkey dinner prepared and served by the Ladies' Aid.

President of the Lions Club, E. J. Woynarowich, was toastmaster for the evening and E. G. Dobson, past president, was Tailtwister. Rev. S. L. Munro, secretary of the club, gave the Invocation.

His Worship Mayor Maccagno brought greetings from the town and welcomed out-of-town guests to what he referred to as "the future recreational capitol of Canada."

It must have been the touch of spring that caused many of the toasts and replies to be in verse form. These were a source of much enjoyment throughout the evening. In his toast to the Old Monarch and the Charter Members, Lion McMillan spoke thus:

"Charter members and monarchs, this toast is to you,
For long faithful service in the things that we do
To make this a better place for all who live here
Our families and friends and all those we hold dear.
So we'll ask all who've come from both far and near,
To rise up and drink to the Old Monarch here,
Lion Chester, and also these gentlemen fine,
Lions Badry, Doc Cadzow ,two Hamars and Klien,
Lions Lobay, Maccagno, Strembisky and Raines.
Ten years have just passed, let's rejoice at our gains —
With members like these our future is sure,
We've had 10 years of progress, let's have many more.
So now please arise, it is time that we do,
Charter members and Monarchs, this toast is to you."

The reply by Lion L. Badry was also in verse:

"Ten years have passed so quickly
That it's hard to believe they're gone;
But for Lions as well as everyone else
The time keeps rolling on.
We are happy to have served 10 years,
We hope for many more.
We're glad we were in the Lions work,
Even when it seemed a chore.
We're still young fellows and full of pep,
Even though 10 years have passed.
I trust we'll have many returns of this day
Before it will be the last."

The toast to the ladies was given by H. Senetza and Mrs. V. Maccagno gave a fitting reply, making reference to the many fine charitable deeds performed by the Lions Club.

N. Chodin gave some of the history of the Club since its formation 10 years ago on April 11. Presidents during those years included L. Hall, W. J. Chester, J. Klein, Sid Lore, E. G. Dobson. Secretaries were E. McQuitty, H. E. Carron, H. Conley, S. Hamar, S. Kelly, Rev. R. Greene.

Mr. Chodin touched on some of the projects the Lions Club had

Achievement Day Program Presented By Waskatenau 4-H Clothing Club

The Waskatenau 4-H Clothing Club held its Achievement Day on May 5 at 8:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Miss Zawaduik, district home economist of the St. Paul district, and Mrs. Johnson of the Vermilion School of Agriculture judged the girls' projects.

The program was opened by singing "O Canada" and repeating the 4-H Pledge. Rose Monchakowsky, chairman for the evening, gave a few words of welcome to the large crowd attending. Sherrill Scott and Caroline Kmech sang "Peace of Mind," accompanied by Pauline Dehod on the piano. Dan Pukalo, president of the Community Centre, said a few words of thanks on behalf of the Community Centre. Emily Zatelny and Mary McNamara gave a demonstration on "Proper Laundering of a Woollen Sweater." The 4-H girls sang a group song, "Stars of the Summer Night," followed by a special song to honor their mothers on Mothers' Day. Each girl presented her mother with a rose to show her appreciation.

Mrs. Flaska ,the guest speaker for the evening, chose as her topic, "A Farm Life is a Happy Life," portraying the happy events of a child's life on a farm. Adele Letersky, club reporter, gave a brief summary of the year's activities.

The highlight of the evening was the fashion show where the girls modelled the articles they had made in 4-H. The first year girls modelled the proper and improper clothes to wear to different occasions. After the fashion show the judges gave their comments on the work of the club for the year. Mr. Logan, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Waskatenau, presented Shirley Brown with a bracelet as a token from the bank for having the most points in the first year. Shirley Brown presented Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Scott with a little souvenir from the girls to show their appreciation of the ladies' help during the year. The judges chose the Wardrobe Plan and Project Books made by Adele Letersky for the second, third and fourth years and Shirley Brown's for the first year to enter the competition for the district.

The Club extends thanks to the judges for their work and comments, Pauline Dehod for the accompaniment on the piano, the ladies of the Community Centre for their help with the lunch and Mrs. G. Flashka for her heartwarming talk.

A successful evening was brought to an end by the singing of "God Save the Queen." The crowd retired to the Home Economics Room for a lunch.

Milking By Hand Beats Machine, Dennis Witwicki Proves In Debate

REDWATER — Recently David Gillanders was host to the regular monthly meeting of the McKinley 4-H Dairy Club at his home.

The meeting was called to order by the president Catherine Wenger. "O Canada" was sung and David Gillanders led the pledge. The roll call was answered with a common farm hazard.

The club crests have arrived and any member can pick them up from the Junior leader for $1.15.

Members showing calves in the top five place were awarded a cash prize of $2 and members in the second five places were awarded $1 each. These placings were made at last year's Achievement Day.

The program for the evening consisted of a debate on hand milking vs machine milking by Lennis Witwicki against Edward Wenger and David Gillander. Dennis Witwicki won despite the absence of his partner. A demonstration was given by Patrick Newell on judging.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Patrick Newell on May 27.

After adjournment "God Save the Queen" was sung and lunch was served.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY
Parent Education Associates

IN some circles mental ability is looked at with such a concentrated gaze that other abilities are clouded.

Intelligence is important. But it doesn't stand alone. It can be measured, and usually is, at school.

Taken by itself, however, while it may indicate the child's future, it cannot predict accurately success or failure in life.

There is more to the picture.

GOOD HEALTH

Most parents would rate good health as a top contributing asset. Health can make the difference between zestful enjoyment of work and play and a mediocre life.

Intelligence may be the gift of the fairy godmother, but good health is the benefaction of real parents.

A mother's watchful and wise care, consistently exercised, increases Junior's ability to run the race of life with all his might.

Again "the mentally gifted youngster who has not learned to get along with others, who is emotionally immature, or who is beset with personal problems is as 'handicapped' as a dull child."

PERSONALITY PROBLEM

The Harvard Bureau of Vocational Guidance made a study of 4,400 persons discharged from jobs. Personality factors accounted for 66% of the cases!

Intelligence may be an hereditary factor, but getting along with others is learned, and learned mostly within the home—again a parental opportunity to influence Junior's future career.

Another factor which complements mental ability is the acquirement of good work habits.

Children need to learn to look over the whole job they are attempting, to make preparation for it in a methodical way, assembling the necessary tools, estimating a reasonable time.

Funeral Rites For John Harold Waine

RICH LAKE — John Harold Waine, a resident of Rich Lake for 46 years, passed away at St. Catherine's Hospital, Lac la Biche, after a lengthy illness.

He was born in 1905 at McCall, Idaho. In 1914 he came to Canada with his parents and settled on a farm at Rich Lake where he resided until his death. In 1939 he married Sophie Kleemola of Rosetown, Sask. To this union were born five children, George, Oscar, Annie and Barbara, all at home, and Amelia who pre-deceased her father in 1945.

He also leaves to mourn his loss, two sisters, Mrs. Martha Seward and Mrs. Hulda Jutila, and two brothers, Andrew and Tom, who all reside at Rich Lake.

In addition to farming Mr. Waine owned and operated the Goose Lake school bus for 10 years. In memory of his service to the school the pupils contributed the money to purchase a floral wreath.

The Rev. S. Munro conducted the service in the Rich Lake United Church.

Pallbearers were Earl Whelen, Joe Sunderman, Max Stevens, Eino Tikkanen, Ray Kumpula and Lester Kumpula.

Interment was in Fork Lake cemetery. Lakeview Mortuary, Lac la Biche, was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

Charter Night Celebrated By Lions

undertaken over the years. They were the original sponsors of the Curling Club, had supported the Skating Rink, Minor League Baseball, given food hampers each Christmas to needy families and assisted numerous welfare cases have recently assisted in bringing the University Mixed Chorus to Lac la Biche and are assisting in procuring a swimming instructor for the summer months.

Mr. Woynarowich introduced the out-of-town guests. Included were Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Rippel, Fort Sask., District Governor Paul and Mrs. Guenette, Edmonton, and Steve Straitch, Thorhild.

Mr. Straitch brought greetings from the Lions Club at Thorhild and reminded his listeners that "Lions Club is international in scope."

Mr. Rippel expressed his pleasure at being present for the 10th anniversary celebrations and brought greetings from the Fort Saskatchewan Club.

Mr. Guenette, in his address, brought greetings from Lions International. He stated that though he was obliged to spend many extra hours and travel many extra miles in his duties as district governor, he was thrilled to be elected to that office for it was a privilege to meet and know so many wonderful people.

In his work in the Lions Club he met people from all over the world of all colors and creeds, who were interested in service to humanity, he said.

In congratulating the Lac la Biche Club on its many years of service, Mr. Guenette noted that in 1951 this Club was awarded by Lions International, for its marked increase in membership.

He stated that there is no need to worry about the future, for the future lies in the hands of the members of the Club and those who will become members. He said, "It lies within your hands what you will make of the future." Members are directly concerned with what goes on in the Club and in the community, he said.

Mr. Guenette said that Lions international boasts of more than ,700 clubs in 104 countries on six continents of the world and comprises some 600,000 members. It is considered to be the widest service organization in the world. There have been 189,000 projects throughout the world, completed by Lions International. These range from "schools in Mexico to milk for children in hunger-ridden countries." The motto for Lions International is "We Serve" but "Charity" would be a better motto, he felt.

Mr. Guenette said that the Lions Club is a tremendous force for peace and harmony and that we should feel proud and never forget our privilege of membership, but there is also the responsibility that goes with membership.

In closing, Mr. Guenette said, "You have a wonderful future, may God give you the courage and perseverance to carry out your duties. God gave us two hands, one with which to give and one to receive."

Histories of award winners will be published next week.

Spreads Ensign To Oust Birds

TORONTO — Ex-serviceman Anthony Yohniki, 40, spread a Canadian Red Ensign on his lawn to keep birds off his seeds, and complaints promptly blossomed.

"This is a very serious disrespect to our flag," said Bernard Glaum of the Native Sons of Canada. "He should be warned not to deface it in this way."

Yohniki said he only used the flag, in his family for 40 years, "when I ran out of burlap" and anyway "I didn't know I was doing wrong."

Trained Pigs Owner Accused Of Cruelty

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. — A district farmer who has gained considerable fame in Canada and the U.S. for training pigs to haul a wagon and obey a driver's commands has been charged with cruelty by the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The charge against Howard Hurley, 65, was laid by SPCA inspector Hector Brusseau of Sturgeon Falls. Inspector Brosseau visited the farmer's home at Hurleyville, 15 miles east of here.

Steel bits used to guide the pigs were confiscated and will be exhibits in the case. The trained pigs have become a traditional part of the annual community night parade here as they pull Hurley on a small cart.

The well-trained team has been photographed by hundreds of tourists and have appeared in numerous fairs and exhibitions.

Bum — Yeah, but I got a date.

PWA Expanding North Air Services

Pacific Western Airlines will start a through service from Edmonton to Cambridge Bay, which is approximately 200 miles beyond the Arctic Circle, on June 14.

The new service will be via Fort Smith and Yellowknife, N.W.T., and will be operated with four-engine, DC-4 equipment. Passenger fares will be reduced by 34% from those presently in effect.

For many years the only regular air service to Cambridge was operated twice a month by Pacific Western from Yellowknife, with float or ski equipped aircraft via Bathurst Inlet. According to Pacific Western Airlines, the new Edmonton - Cambridge Bay service will now be operated as an addition to the existing service and substantially lower freight rates will also apply to the new service.

The Three Faces Of Eve

Chapter 14

By Corbett H. Thigpen, M.D., and Hervey M. Cleckley, M.D.

A few months after Eve White obtained her divorce, Jane reported on a social experience of her own which seemed now to be growing in importance to her.

The frivolous Eve Black had gone to a dance and was now for the moment unoccupied. Jane in retrospect this describes the incident:

"May I have this dance?" a good-looking, well-dressed young man asked. Without even a courteous glance in his direction, the bored, capricious girl answered, 'I don't dance, sorry. My roommate dances well.'

'She then abruptly indicated a slim red-haired girl, dressed in black, standing beside her.

" 'But I want to dance with you,' came the soft reply.

"Oh, heavens, she thought, I may as well dance with him. That's the quickest way to get rid of this male pest.

"It was then that by mere chance I emerged. And for the first time in my life I danced. I did it very poorly, but nevertheless, I had fun the balance of the evening.

"The handsome softspoken stranger called himself Earl Lancaster. He was to bring much happiness into my lonely life.

WILL WANT LOVE

"Dr. Thigpen had told me one afternoon in his office, 'Jane, the day will come when you will see things differently. You will want love, a husband, a home and children. You have a lot of feeing somewhere there inside of you.'

"I thought he was wrong, of course. I was sure I would never need any of the things that two people with the same interests want. I thought I was a woman created to live alone.

"I remember when I had to tell Earl about my illness. Many people had interpreted my story so narrowly that I feared telling him. But I knew I must. It would not be fair otherwise. I knew if someone else told him first, I would lose his respect. After I had told him all there was to tell, I asked him how he felt about dating me.

" 'The same as I did before,' he said.

"That's the kind of person Earl is. We know that if this love of ours has a happy ending it will indeed be a miracle. We are faced by the fact that Eve White and Eve Black may be the remaining personality, but he is willing to wait and see. Can anyone blame me for wanting to live?"

Though much of Jane's diary now reflects her intertst in this young man and the new aspect of feeling and living that were opened before her, she also turned often to reminiscence about her own brief career.

FEELS DISPONDENT

"Restlessness dominates me so much at times. I keep going back to the first time I can recall, the day I found myself sitting in the doctor's office. I noticed first of all that he was dressed differently, and the realization came to me that he was a man. I then realized that I knew no basic facts about myself —such as where I lived, who I was, etc.

"Later, I was told that he was Dr. Thigpen. When he asked me my name, I said Jane. And so I became Jane. I don't mind people calling me Eve, when I'm out, as I did at first.

"I've begun to feel despondent much of the time. It seems to be a mood I can't shake. I wonder if confusion can contribute to one's gains. . . . My enthusiasm is often misinterpreted. I seek opportunity but seems to make little or no progress.

"I wonder if Eve White has experienced such periods when her powers of concentration were disturbed; perhaps diverted is a better word for it. My pattern of thought seems to reach a point then, for no good reason, break off. My imagination lacks the feeling of construction . . . Actually I don't know what I'm like.'

"MY GREATEST WORRIES," wrote Eve White, "lie in trying to look ahead to the future of my daughter. What hurts me is for her to touch my face and ask, 'Are you my Mommy or is it one of the others?' "—Illustration from the 20th Century-Fox motion picture "The Three Faces of Eve".

LOVES THE DAUGHTER

On another occasion, in describing her growing interest in Eve White's daughter, Jane wrote:

"She is the first person I loved beside my doctor. For this tiny intelligent child I want to do the things that a mother might do, even though I have never been a mother. . . . Where do I fit into the picture? Sometimes I feel I don't belong in it at all. But then how do I get out of it?"

Eve White had made good improvement since the divorce. She did not show any evidence of regretting this step. Never as freely articulate as Jane, she wrote much less in her diary.

A note of resignation increasingly pervaded Eve White's writings. Her hope for a successful solution to her problems steadily diminished. Sometimes her attitude seemed plainly that of one who had accepted extinction as inevitable and is seeking to put her affairs in the best order possible.

WORRIES ABOUT BONNIE

During this period she wrote:

"The fact that I have an unusual disorder is something that I realized long ago I must accept, and try to make the best of the existing situation. My greatest worries lie in trying to look ahead to the future for my baby daughter. She has no mother or father. What hurts me is for her to climb on my knee, touch my face with her tiny hands and ask, 'Are you my Mommy or is it one of the others?'

"What answer can I give my child?

"The last time I remember talking with her, she told me that in another year she would begin school and asked if I were coming home to send her. You cannot tell a tiny child that her mother is never coming home, that someone who looks like Mommy but who, I am told, is different, will take charge of her future life.

"I only hope that Jane will learn to love her as I do. If so, I will not fear. I don't mind dying; except I am afraid that Jane might not understand how very much little people need love and understanding. Especially my baby. She's so sensitive . . . "

HAUNTING FEAR

Though Jane continued to be serene in manner and never showed any obvious signs of the stress and the haunting fear so familiar in Eve White, she began to report strange and disturbing feelings and unpleasant experiences entirely novel to her. For the first time in her brief span of being, she now complained of severe headaches, of weird and terrifying nightmares. She repeatedly expressed fear:

"Double darkness must have covered Eve White's face as the distressing nature of her true illness became revealed to her. It must have pounded into her brain with the impact of terror.

"I feel this because of the first time I am experiencing some of the the really blinding pains of the headache she has described. I am afraid . . . I know where they are coming from. I know what is wrong. How must she have felt not knowing anything for so long then to find that she must tell herself, 'You have a dual personality?

"I am frightened beyond words when I awaken in the middle of the night with a headache so severe I cannot see. I fix a smile on my lips when I walk down the street to keep people from knowing I can't completely think half of the time anymore. I can understand now Eve White thought she was going insane. I, too, feel now that I am. Something has to give.

WEIRD DREAM

"When I sleep I am not resting. I am dreaming weird, unbelievable dreams. These I am trying to record also. The doctor said it might help. I've tried to get in touch with him all week, but he doesn't seem to be there. He could help me I know . . . I wonder if I'll live to see another sun . . . I can't think."

She emphasized increasingly the terror and horror caused by her dreams. Snakes continually appeared often gruesomely, in the bizarre nocturnal scenes. From the records Jane made, let us quote:

"For the last few nights I have dreamed that various parts of my body were turning into snakes. Each night more of me is consumed by reptiles. It's getting hard for me even to try to sleep, because I am afraid . . .

"Dreaming can become positively maddening. I awaken at night and feel as if all these horrible, unbelievable things are really happening to me. Often it takes some time to convince myself it is only a dream.

'LOSING MY BEARINGS"

"In a dream I was going fishing and Ralph White was walking behind me. He kept repeating the same words, 'Keep walking. Don't look back.' But for some reason I turned and saw him standing there with a long black snake in his hand . . . Just as I glanced it bit him on the hand. It seemed almost as if he were trying to protect me.

"Many nights I have dreamed that parts of my body were turning into snakes. Each night it was a larger portion. I knew I was dying each time. When I awaken from dreaming it has taken as long as an hour for me to convince myself my hands and feet were not snakes.

"I seem to be losing by bearings. I can make it through the day; but when night comes it is almost as if I am transported to another realm where I lose contact with the present world. The dreams are really frightening. How much longer?"

Next Week — An unexpected development brings the strange case to a dramatic climax. (From the book "The Three Faces of Eve", copyright 1957 by Corbett H. Thigpen and Hervey M. Cleckley, and published by McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc.). Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Many of you are preparing handicraft articles for competition. You might be interested in knowing the standards for judging which the Home Economists use. These are the points for which we check.

KNITTED ARTICLES

B. McCutcheon

Clean and blocked.
Close, even stitch (holds shape).
Good proportion; collars not uneven.
Strong suitable seam joinings (grafted toes in socks).
Pleasing color combination (only one bright color).

Design, if any, (a) in proportion to article; (b) follow some construction line; (c) stylized, not naturalistic, or geometric (large designs as animals and faces detract from wearer's face).

Zippers, buttons, buttonholes—neat and strong.

Ends of yarn well woven in and finished neatly.

No long loose loops on back of fair isle knitting.

INFANT'S KNITTED OR CROCHETED SETS

White or pastel color — most suitable to baby.

Clean and blocked.

Cap and boots in proportion to jacket. Proper shape to each article.

Close, even stitch (baby catches fingers in open designs).

Neck and sleeve opening neither too tight nor too big.

Seam joinings — flat, smooth and soft (needle weaving).

Ties made from yarn are preferable to ribbon which requires ironing .

Trimming — simple if any, and placed following a construction line.

CROCHETING

Practical article.

Clean and blocked.

One color preferred in most articles; also adds to cost.

Articles should be flat or hold its shape without dressing.

Design in proportion to size of piece.

Harmony in the various parts of the design.

Even stitch and tension.

No loose ends or knots.

Joinings strong and neat.

Easy to care for.

Ruffled doilies, variegated thread, colored pansy or rose designs are: (a) too ornate for the average home; (b) too feminine for a room occupied by a man; (c) too decorative to serve as a background for vase of flowers, ornament, etc.

Crocheted edge on hanky should be in proportion to size — not too large or loose.

Rich Lake

Mrs. Martha Sward has been a patient in Lac la Biche Hospital for several days.

Despite the snow and bad roads, a large crowd of friends and relatives gathered at the Rich Lake United Church, May 14, to pay their last respects to John Waine, a district old-timer.

Mrs. Fiina Kumpula has returned home from the General Hospital in Edmonton where she underwent surgery.

Eino Tikkanen is remodelling the house he purchased some time ago.
